This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

OF READING.

" One drachma for a good book, and a thousand talents for a true friend:—
So standeth the market where scarce is ever costly:
Yea, were the diamonds of Golconda common as shingles on the shore,
A ripe apple would ransom kings before a shining stone:
And so, were a wholesome book, as rare as an honest friend,
To choose the book be mine: the friend let another take.
For altered looks and jealousies and fears have none entrance there:
The silent volume listeneth well, and speaketh when thou listest:
It praiseth thy good without envy, it chideth thine evil without malice,
It is to thee thy waiting slave, and thine unbending teacher.
Need to humor no caprice, need to bear with no infirmity,
Thy sin, thy slander, or neglect, chilleth not, quencheth not, its love;
Unalterably speaketh it the truth, warped nor by error nor interest;
For a good book is the best of friends, the same to-day and forever.

* * * * * * * *

" O books, ye monuments of mind, concrete wisdom of the wisest;
Sweet solaces of daily life; proofs and results of immortality;
Trees yielding all fruits, whose leaves are for the healing of the nations,
Groves of knowledge, where all may eat, nor fear a flaming sword;
Gentle comrades, kind advisers; friends, comforts, treasures:
Helps, governments, diversities of tongues; who can weigh your worth?—
To walk no longer with the just; to be driven from the porch of science;
To bid long adieu to those intimate ones, poets, philosophers and teachers;
To see no record of the sympathies which bind thee in communion with the good;
To be thrust from the feet of Him, who spake as never man spake;
To have no avenue to heaven but the dim aisle of superstition;
To live as an Esquimaux, in legarthy; to die as the Mohawk, in ignorance;
O what were life, but a blank? what were death, but a terror?
What were man but a burden to himself? what were mind, but misery?
Yea, let another Omar burn the full library of knowledge,
And the broad world may perish in the flames, offered on the ashes of its wisdom!"

In issuing this first part of the general Catalogue of his books, the subscriber thinks it may be necessary briefly to mention the purposes for which his establishment has been instituted, and the principles on which it is conducted. A house in which literary persons might find the best works in every language, particularly those which are difficult to be procured at a reasonable price, has long been a desideratum in our country, and one the want of which has been severely felt by those whose tastes led them to literary pursuits, but whose resources would not enable them to procure many works which were absolutely necessary to them. To obviate this difficulty, he has made it his particular study to collect such works as are scarce and valuable, and he flatters himself that he has succeeded in accumulating the largest collection of rare, curious, and valuable books that has ever been offered for sale on this continent. Many of the works indeed which will be found recorded in this and the succeeding numbers of his Catalogue, not only cannot be procured at any other store in this country, but are difficult to be met with even in the great book marts of Europe. Wherever it was possible to distinguish, he has paid the greatest attention to the choice of the best Editions.

His establishment presents another distinguishing feature in his stock of SECOND HAND BOOKS, which is larger and more complete than any other in America. But little attention has hitherto been bestowed by American booksellers on this branch; they have looked more to the appearance of their stock than to its quality; content if they could realize large profits from gilded trash. It is certain, nevertheless, that nothing is better calculated to advance the cause of literature and science, than the sale of second hand works, by which the student is enabled to procure three or four books to the one he could before purchase.

The grand characteristic of his establishment, however, is its CHEAPNESS. It is in this particularly that he excels; possessing extraordinary advantages in the purchase of his stock, he offers his books at extremely low prices, preferring small profits and ready sales, to large advances on cost, and a slow stock. A reference to the prices in this Catalogue will amply prove the truth of this assertion.

His stock of new books is very large, and is continually increasing. It embraces a valuable collection of French, Spanish, German and Italian works, as well as English and American. Any work on sale can be had from him at a far lower price than the same can be procured in any other store. His prices are fixed, and no abatement will be made from them, except on account of quantity, or to the Trade. All orders will be executed with the utmost punctuality and despatch. Those ordering will please be particular to cite not only the Number, but also the First Word and Price of the article desired. JOHN DOYLE.

BP. HALL'S MEDITATION ON A LIBRARY.

"What a world of wit is here packed up together! I know not whether this sight doth more dismay or comfort me: it dismays me to think that here is so much that I cannot know; it comforts me to think that this variety yields so good helps to know what I should. There is no truer word than that of Solomon: There is no end of making many books. This sight verifies it. There is no end; indeed, it were pity there should. God hath given to man a busy soul; the agitation whereof cannot but, through time and experience, work out many hidden truths: to suppress these would be no other than injurious to mankind, whose minds, like unto so many candles, should be kindled by each other. The thoughts of our deliberation are most accurate; these we vent into our papers. What a happiness is it, that, without all offence of necromancy, I may here call up any of the ancient Worthies of Learning, whether human or divine, and confer with them of all my doubts! that I can, at pleasure, summon whole synods of reverend Fathers and acute Doctors from all the coasts of the earth, to give their well-studied judgments in all points of question which I propose! Neither can I cast my eye casually upon any of these silent masters but I must learn somewhat. It is wantonness to complain of choice. No law binds us to read all; but the more we can take in and digest, the better-liking must the mind needs be. Blessed be God, that hath set up so many clear lamps in His Church. Now, none but the wilfully blind can plead darkness. And blessed be the memory of those his faithful servants that have left their blood, their spirits, their lives, in these precious books; and have wasted themselves into these during monuments, to give light unto others."

* * *

BP. HALL ON THE PLEASURE OF STUDY.

"What a heaven lives the scholar in, that at once, in one close room, can daily converse with all the glorious Martyrs and Fathers!—that can single out, at pleasure, either sententious Tertullian, or grave Cyprian, or resolute Jerome, or flowing Chrysostom, or divine Ambrose, or devout Bernard, or, who alone is all these, heavenly Augustine; and talk with them, and hear their wise and holy counsels, verdicts, and resolutions. . . . Let the world contemn us; while we have these delights, we cannot envy them; we cannot wish ourselves other than we are. . . . Study itself is our life; from which we would not be barred for a world: how much sweeter, then, is the fruit of study, the conscience of knowlege! in comparison whereof, the soul that hath once tasted it easily contemns all human comfort.

"Go now, ye worldlings, and insult over our paleness, our neediness, our neglect. Ye could not be so jocund, if you were not so ignorant: if you did not want knowledge, you would not overlook him that hath it. For me, I am so far from emulating you, that I profess I would as lief be a brute beast, as an ignorant rich man."

Few Preachers have enjoyed greater popularity in London or its vicinity, than the late Rev. George Mathew, many years Vicar of Greenwich, and alternate Morning Preacher at St. James's. Four large editions of his sermons were sold in a very short time, They are remarkable specimens of close and perspicuous argument, arranged with great clearness, and enforced with extraordinary ability.

" Mr. Mathew's Sermons display every excellence we could wish; all that can instruct the ignorant, confirm the wavering, or alarm the vicious; they cannot be read without advantage. He has been eminently successul in reducing Butler's Analogy to the level of the meanest capacity, and in giving a luminous précis of his arguments."—BRITISH CRITIC.

"No library which admits the Sermons of Barrow, Tillotson, and Jeremy Taylor, should be without those of that great divine, Bishop Sanderson."

Dr. Hammond has observed that, "Sanderson conceives all things deliberately, speaks upon them discreetly, discerns things that differ exactly, passeth his judgment rationally, and expresseth it aptly, clearly, and honestly." Dr. Wotton says, "What Bishop Sanderson has written is all gold, and thoroughly refined." And the Rev. E. Bickersteth observes, "Sanderson was a man of great reflection and judgment, and his works abound with important discussions and decisions."

"There are no sermons more valuable for study, or more to be recommended to a young divine for their sound doctrine and admirable matter, than Bishop Sanderson's."—Ecclesiastical Journal.

This celebrated Satire on the Fathers of the Dominican and Mendicant orders, written by Father Isla, a Jesuit, caused probably a greater sensation than any work of the kind which ever issued from the press. Denounced in unmeasured terms by the Bishops and the greater part of the Clergy, while upheld stoutly by the Inquisition it came before the general council of Castile, by whose orders it was rigorously suppressed. Copies are now rare.

Poetry.

"Try a good poem as you would sound a pipkin; and if it rings well upon the knuckle, be sure there is no flaw in it. Verse without rhyme is a body without a soul, or a bell without a clapper; which in strictness is no bell, as being neither of use nor delight."

"Things of deep sense we may in prose unfold,
But they move more in lofty numbers told;
By the loud trumpet which our courage aids,
We learn that sound as well as sense persuades."

Shakspeariana and the Drama.

> "In whatever light the surly dogmatist may consider plays in general, it may safely be asserted that they be good in particular. . . . . . Indeed where virtue obtains those rewards which Heaven will bestow, and poetic justice should never withhold; and where vice smarts for its crimes, and is not rendered alluring by the attraction of pleasing qualities, then the Stage may be considered as an auxiliary to the Pulpit; for morality and religion must ever be united."

"Thrice happy land! where he who flies
From the dark ills of other skies,
From scorn, or want's unnerving woes,
May shelter him in proud repose!
Hope sings along the yellow sand
His welcome to a patriot land;
At once the mighty wood receives
The stranger in its world of leaves,
Which soon their barren glory yield
To the warm shed, and cultured field,
And he who came of all bereft,
To whom malignant fate had left
Nor home, nor friends, nor country dear,
Finds home, and friends, and country here."

Natural History.

"Natural History is no work for one that loves his chair or his bed. Speculation may be pursued on a soft couch, but nature must be observed in the open air. I have collected materials with indefatigable pertinacity. I have gathered glow worms in the evening, and snails in the morning; I have seen the day open and close; I have heard the Owl shriek at midnight, and hunted insects in the heat of noon."

Agriculture, Botany, and Rural Sports.

"Behold the original and primitive nobility of all those great persons, who are too proud now, not only to till the ground, but almost to tread on it. We may talk what we please of lilies, and lions rampant, and spread eagles, in fields d'or or d'argent; but if heraldry were guided by reason, a plough in a field arable would be the most noble and ancient arms."

"A man who publishes his works in a volume, has an infinite advantage over one who communicates his writings to the world in loose tracts and single pieces............This gave occasion to the famous Greek proverb, that 'a great book is a great evil.'"

"One with a flash begins and ends in smoke;
Another out of smoke brings glorious light,
And without raising expectation high,
Surprises us with dazzling miracles."

THE SECOND PART

OF THE

CATALOGUE

IS NOW IN PREPARATION, AND WILL BE PUT TO PRESS AS SOON AS FINISHED. IT WILL CONTAIN A VAST AMOUNT OF GENERAL LITERATURE, &c., INCLUDING A FINE COLLECTION OF

FRENCH, GERMAN, SPANISH AND ITALIAN WORKS;

A LARGE ASSORTMENT OF LAW AND MEDICINE; WORKS OF FICTION AND OTHER CLASSES NOT INCLUDED IN THIS FIRST PART.

Persons therefore wishing works not recorded in this volume must not be deterred from ordering them on that account, as they may be on hand, and if so, will be sold at very low prices. To Gentlemen forming Libraries, as well as to Committees of Public Libraries, the Subscriber would merely say, that as there are but few establishments in this country in which so great a number of curious and rare works can be found, so there is none in which they will be disposed of at so low a price.

JOHN DOYLE.
